

Theater Arts 120

For the next foreseeable future, we will be looking at plays online and taking notes on the things that will be listed below.

The National Theater YouTube channel will be posting plays that they recorded during their live performances. The plays will be posted every Thursday at 4pm and be available for only 7 days. Here is a list of plays along with their release dates.

- 1) April 2, 2020 – One Man, Two Guvnors
- 2) April 10th, 2020 – Jane Eyre
- 3) April 17th, 2020 – Treasure Island
- 4) April 24th, 2020 – Twelfth Night

Remember, these plays will only be available for 7 days, so take advantage of them while you can! 😊

Here is a list of things I want you to take note of while watching the plays.

- Take note of how they express their emotions both by their voice changes and their movements. We worked on this in class and now you have the opportunity to see it in action!
- Also take notice of their blocking and stage presence. This is also something we worked on in class. Never turn your back to your audience 😊
- Lastly, I want you to notice how they keep in character the whole time they are on stage; not only when they are talking/interacting with other characters.

While taking note of items, I want to challenge you to also take note of your favorite characters, favorite scenes, or least favorite character/ scenes and why.

I would love for you all to email me your thoughts on the plays and I will reply with mine!

I miss you all!
