

Carpentry – week 1

Hello carpentry students. How have you been holding up? I sure hope you are all ok and keeping yourselves safe.

This is the start of continuing learning at SSHS. It's not possible for us to meet in the shop and work on projects, too bad because that is the fun part of the course, right! But we can explore different ways to continue with learning.

A popular trend developing is that of tiny houses. The shop class at Central Academy was building one in their shop and we saw how the students at CCNB had one on the go as well. Let's explore this phenomenon for a bit.

I've included some web links to various pages of images and of some builders of these unorthodox dwellings. Have a look at them. Search some out on your own. What do you think of the idea of tiny houses? Do you think you could live in one? Do you know anybody who has experienced one? Have you discovered any interesting websites about tiny houses?

Share your comments, ideas and web sites you found with the class. You can email to: patrice.lanteigne@nbed.nb.ca

<https://nelsontinyhouses.com/>

<https://canadiantinyhomes.ca/services/>

<https://www.incredibletinyhomes.com/gallery/>

<https://www.pinterest.ca/nerdymammablog/tiny-house-ideas/>

<https://www.curbed.com/2017/2/14/14611420/tiny-houses-designs-couples-storage>

<https://www.dwell.com/tiny-homes>